PH CALLS FOR DIPLOMACY, INT'L LAW TO RESOLVE GLOBAL CONFLICTS

The Philippines called for disputes and conflicts to be resolved through diplomacy and international law rather than force, warning that ongoing conflicts, including those in the Middle East and Ukraine, are taking a toll on the global economy.

Foreign Affairs Secretary Maria Theresa Lazaro made the call in her address at the 81st United Nations General Assembly at the UN headquarters in New York City on Saturday, where she noted that more than 50 conflicts are taking place worldwide as geopolitical competition intensifies and undermines multilateral institutions.

"When more than 645 million people face hunger, when our climate remains in a state of calamity, and when our collective conscience is stained by humanitarian catastrophes, reflection must give way to urgent, united resolve," she said.

"We cannot continue down fragmented paths in an interconnected world," she added.

Lazaro said continued disruptions to maritime traffic in the Middle East alone could trigger an energy emergency in the Philippines, while the war in Ukraine is compounding the global food crisis and economic shocks unseen since the Second World War.

"Peace, therefore, is not merely the absence of war. It is our shared and indivisible responsibility," she said.

On Gaza, Lazaro reiterated Manila's call for an immediate and sustained ceasefire, the protection of civilians and the release of all hostages, while urging all parties to comply with international law and return to dialogue.

She reaffirmed Manila's support for the Palestinian people's right to self-determination. She said a two-state solution, with Israel and Palestine living side by side, is the "only viable path to lasting and durable peace."

Lazaro said Manila's approach to peace also applies to maritime disputes, emphasizing that international law must remain every nation's "guiding lighthouse," including the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea.

She cited the 2016 South China Sea Arbitral Award as a demonstration of "how international law provides states with peaceful means to clarify rights and resolve differences."

"The Philippines stands firm in its conviction that disputes must be resolved through diplomacy and law, not violence and might," she said.

Lazaro also called for a stronger UN to address threats to international peace and security and backed calls for greater representation at the Security Council.

"We need to reflect deeply on the promises of our charter and on the state of our fractured world. We must actively seek collective pathways that transcend borders and bridge divides," she said.

"And above all, you must always put a face to what we do, remembering that every policy, every treaty, and every institutional reform is ultimately about real human lives." (PTV NEWS-DAC)

LTFRB REMINDS PUV OPERATORS, DRIVERS TO DISPLAY UPDATED FARE MATRIX

ABISO SA PUBLIKO

PARA SA MGA OPERATOR AT DRAYBER

Pinapaalalahanan ang lahat ng operator at drayber ng mga pampublikong sasakyan na tiyaking nakapaskil sa loob ng kanilang mga sasakyan ang kaukulang updated fare guide/matrix bago ipatupad ang taas-pasahe simula Lunes, September 28, 2026.

Maaaring i-download nang libre ang updated fare guide/matrix sa opisyal na website ng Land Transportation Franchising and Regulatory Board (LTFRB) sa ltfrb.gov.ph.

Hinihikayat naman ang mga komyuter na ipagbigay-alam sa ahensya ang anumang insidente ng hindi pagpapaskil ng updated fare guide/matrix sa mga pampublikong sasakyan sa pamamagitan ng pagtawag sa 1342 Hotline o pag-message sa official Facebook page ng LTFRB, upang mabigyan ng kaukulang aksyon alinsunod sa umiiral na mga patakaran.

Maraming salamat po.

PASIG CITY — The Land Transportation Franchising and Regulatory Board (LTFRB) reminds public utility vehicle (PUV) operators and drivers to display updated fare matrix, following the Department of Transportation's (DOTr) approval of fare adjustment for PUVs.

In an advisory, the LTFRB said all PUV operators and drivers must ensure that the appropriate and updated fare guide/matrix is displayed inside their vehicles before the fare hike takes effect on Monday, September 28.

The updated fare guide/matrix may be downloaded for free from the agency's official website at ltfrb.gov.ph.

DOTr Secretary Giovanni Lopez has approved the recommendation of the LTFRB to implement PUV fare adjustment that was suspended in March 2026, in response to the continued rise in fuel prices and its impact on the transportation sector.

President Ferdinand Marcos Jr. has directed the department to ensure a balance between the sustainability of PUV operations and the needs of the commuters, while maintaining sufficient and reliable public transport services.

Prior to the approval of the fare adjustment rates in March, the DOTr and LTFRB had already made consultations with various transport groups.

Meanwhile, commuters are encouraged to report any instances of PUVs failing to display the updated fare guide/matrix by calling the 1342 Hotline or messaging the official LTFRB Facebook page for appropriate action in accordance with existing regulations. (JEG/PIA-NCR) –Photos courtesy of LTFRB

PBBM grants Mary Jane Veloso absolute pardon

President Ferdinand R. Marcos Jr. on Friday announced the granting of an absolute pardon to Mary Jane Veloso, who returned to the Philippines in December 2024 after spending nearly 15 years in prison in Indonesia for alleged drug trafficking.

"Pinirmahan ko na 'yung pardon niya kahapon," President Marcos Jr. confirmed on the sidelines of his visit to Eastern Visayas.

Malacañang said Wednesday that Marcos Jr. was considering granting Veloso an absolute pardon on humanitarian grounds.

Veloso was arrested in 2010 in Yogyakarta, Indonesia, and was sentenced to death in the same year after authorities found 2.6 kg of heroin in her luggage.

She consistently maintained her innocence, saying she was a victim of human trafficking and her recruiters tricked her into carrying the suitcase without her knowledge.

She received a last-minute reprieve in 2015 after the Philippine government asked Indonesia to spare her so she could testify against her alleged human traffickers.

Following diplomatic engagements between the Philippines and Indonesia regarding prisoner transfer arrangements, Veloso was repatriated to Manila in 2024 and was transferred to the Correctional Institution for Women in Mandaluyong City to serve the remainder of her legal sentence under Philippine jurisdiction.

Veloso's appeal for executive clemency was evaluated and reviewed by the Office of the President earlier this year.

Closure, renewed fight vs trafficking

Meanwhile, Senator Francis Pangilinan said the absolute pardon gives Veloso and her family a chance to rebuild their lives after nearly 16 years of detention, while underscoring the need to pursue recruiters and trafficking syndicates preying on Filipinos.

"Kinalulugod natin ang paggawad ni Pangulong Ferdinand Marcos Jr. ng absolute pardon kay Mary Jane Veloso," Pangilinan said in a statement.

Pangilinan said Veloso's experience should also serve as a reminder of the risks faced by Filipinos seeking jobs abroad.

"Habang ipinagdiriwang natin ang kalayaan ni Mary Jane, tuloy-tuloy nating singilin ang mga illegal recruiter, human trafficker at drug syndicate na sinasamantala ang pangarap at kahinaan ng ating mga kababayang OFW," he said. (PTV4News / with a report from Wilnard Bace-lonia)

DBM proposes P229-M for EV program in 2027

MANILA — The Department of Budget and Management (DBM) is proposing almost P229 million under the proposed Fiscal Year (FY) 2027 National Expenditure Program (NEP) for the Electric Vehicle Industry Development Program (EVIDP)—more than seven times its P32.46-million allocation under the FY 2026 General Appropriations Act (GAA).

According to DBM, the proposed P228.92 million funding represents a 605.17-percent increase to support the Electric Vehicle Infrastructure Scoping, Implementation and Operationalization in Selected Government Offices (EVison) Project, as well as the establishment of an Electric Vehicle Charging System Testing Facility.

The proposed investment is aligned with President Ferdinand R. Marcos Jr.'s clean-energy agenda, which he highlighted in his 2026 State of the Nation Address (SONA).

DBM chief Secretary Kim Robert C. De Leon said the proposed budget reflects the government's continuing investment in a more secure and sustainable energy sector while supporting the transition to cleaner technologies.

"A secure, reliable, and sustainable energy sector is essential to economic growth and improving the quality of life of every Filipino. Accordingly, the proposed FY 2027 budget invests in projects that strengthen the country's energy security while expanding access to electricity and supporting the transition to cleaner energy technologies," De Leon said.

The DBM also said that the increased investment will help build the infrastructure needed to make electric mobility more accessible, convenient, and practical in government operations—from expanding charging facilities in selected government offices to strengthening the capacity to test EV charging systems. These investments can help support wider EV adoption and the government's shift toward cleaner mobility, paving the way for less smoke on the roads and cleaner transport for Filipinos.

The EV program forms part of the P5.58-billion budget proposed for the Department of Energy (DOE) in 2027, which is 25.74 percent higher than its P4.43-billion allocation under the FY 2026 GAA.

Beyond cleaner mobility, the proposed FY 2027 DOE budget also strengthens the country's capacity to develop indigenous energy resources.

Likewise, a total of P1.36 billion is proposed for the Philippine Gradiometry and Seismic Survey Project, more than double its P627.50-million allocation under the FY 2026 GAA.

The DBM added that the project supports the exploration and assessment of the country's potential indigenous energy resources, generating information that can help guide the development of domestic energy sources and reduce dependence on imported energy over the longer term.

Through higher investments in electric mobility and domestic energy development, the proposed FY 2027 DOE budget supports the transition to cleaner transport technologies while strengthening the country's energy security for the years ahead. (JEG/PIA-NCR)

President Marcos highlights Philippines' improved PISA 2025 performance after education reforms

President Ferdinand R. Marcos on Monday highlighted the Philippines' improved performance in the 2025 Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA), citing gains in reading, science and mathematics as the country continues to implement reforms in the education sector.

"A few weeks ago, the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, or OECD, released the results of the Programme for International Student Assessment, or PISA 2025," President Marcos said during his speech at the Recognition of PISA Participating Schools and Education Partners, held at the President "Cory" Corazon C. Aquino National High School, in Pasay City.

President Marcos said the assessment provides a clearer picture of what 15-year-olds can do with what they have learned.

"After all, education is just about what students know and what they learn. We want our children to understand what they read, apply mathematics to solve day-to-day problems, and use science to improve their lives," President Marcos said.

"And that's why, compared with our results from 2022, we have seen improvements," the President also said.

President Marcos said the Philippines' scores increased by 20 points in reading, 17 points in science, and 16 points in mathematics.

This achievement was brought about by years of consistent guidance, encouragement, and support from teachers, families, schools, communities, and partners, the Chief Executive noted.

President Marcos said this is why the country recognizes the people and institutions that helped make it possible.

The President also thanked the participating schools; school leaders; learners and their parents; local government partners; and everyone who contributed to this milestone.

"We appreciate our teachers who have spent long hours in the classroom, guiding our learners so that they can perform well in this assessment," President Marcos said.

The President also acknowledged the government's partners who worked with them to prepare for PISA 2025 including Frontlearners, Khan Academy Philippines, ConnectEd by Her Legacy, the IT and Business Process Association of the Philippines, Rebisco Global Food Ventures, and One Meralco.

Among the guests were Department of Education (DepEd) Secretary Juan EdgarDO Angara and Pasay City Mayor Emi Calixto-Rubiano. (PND)

Malabon-Navotas fisherfolk join 'MANA Mo' celebration water parade

QUEZON CITY — Around 30 local fishers from the Nagkakaisang Mangingisda ng Tanza gathered along the coastal waters of the Dampalit Megadike in Malabon City on Thursday to hold a fluvial parade in celebration of the Maritime and Archipelagic Nation Awareness Month (MANA Mo).

The community-driven event demonstrated unity, raised awareness for marine conservation, and highlighted the role of Filipino fisherfolk in protecting the country's maritime heritage and natural resources through a coordinated boat procession.

Sailing side by side before forming a united circle on the water, the participating fisherfolk turned the parade into a powerful statement on coastal protection and community participation.

For Manuelito Villanueva, President of the Association, the event served as a reminder of how deeply their livelihoods and food security depend on the health of the surrounding seas.

"Ngayon ay Maritime and Archipelagic Nation Awareness Month o MANA Mo. Ipinagdiriwang natin ngayong buwan ang ating bansa na napapalibutan ng tubig na pinagkukuhanan ng kabuhayan, katulad naming mga mangingisda. Nararapat natin itong pangalagaan upang sa susunod na henerasyon ay mayroon silang mamanahing magandang kalikasan," Villanueva said.

Erwin Romel Acupang, a community biker and a supporter of the campaign, underscored the legal and sovereign importance of maritime preservation across the country.

"Napakahalaga ng MANA Mo. Ito ay ipinatatupad na batas upang ipaglaban natin ang ating karapatan, hindi lang sa West Philippine Sea kundi sa lahat ng katubigan dito sa Pilipinas," Acupang said.

The fluvial parade demonstrated how different sectors can come together to promote maritime awareness and community participation. From fisherfolk who depend directly on the sea, to volunteers and supporters who joined the activity, the event reflected a shared connection to the country's waters. (JVD/PIA-NCR)

DTI intensifies price monitoring of basic goods amid fuel price spike

MANILA (PIA) — The Department of Trade and Industry has ordered all its offices nationwide to intensify monitoring of basic commodity prices in groceries, supermarkets and other markets following successive increases in petroleum product prices, Trade Secretary Ma. Cristina Roque announced.

Roque said the agency is closely watching the prices of prime commodities to ensure that businesses do not take advantage of the fuel price situation to artificially raise the cost of essential goods.

The official said the DTI's stepped-up price monitoring reflects the Marcos Jr. administration's ongoing effort to protect consumers from price manipulation and ensure that relief measures addressing the impact of fuel price increases are not undermined by artificial inflation of essential goods.

The trade secretary, however, clarified that the government has not yet found it necessary to impose a price cap on basic commodities, describing the current situation as still manageable.

"Inatasan na nila ang lahat ng kanilang tanggapan upang paigtingin ang monitoring at matiyak na lahat ng prime commodities ay hindi basta-basta nagtataas ng presyo," Roque said in a radio interview over Radyo Pilipinas.

The DTI is also warning business owners, manufacturers and store operators against engaging in artificial price increases, saying those caught manipulating commodity prices will face corresponding penalties and fines under existing consumer protection laws.

Rising petroleum prices directly affect the cost of producing, transporting and distributing basic goods, creating conditions that unscrupulous traders can exploit to impose unjustified price hikes on Filipino consumers, particularly low-income households for whom food and basic commodities represent the largest share of daily expenditures.

The Marcos Jr. administration has allocated more than P60 billion to cushion the effects of the energy crisis on Filipino households, while deploying Kadiwa ng Pangulo markets, the P20-per-kilo rice program and other price stabilization measures to bring down the cost of food and basic necessities for vulnerable sectors. New Oriental Mindoro police chief seizes Php1.8-M shabu, guns in Roxas raid

CALAPAN CITY, Oriental Mindoro — The Police Provincial Office (PPO) seized over Php1.8 million worth of suspected shabu along with unlicensed firearms and ammunition following a raid on a high-value individual (HVI) in Barangay Bagumbayan in Roxas town on Thursday, Sept. 24, 2026.

Police Colonel Efraim A. Camara, on his first day as Provincial Director of the Oriental Mindoro PPO, commended the joint operating units for the intelligence-driven raid.

“Sa pagsisimula ng ating pamumuno, nais nating ipakita na ang ating commitment sa seguridad ng Mindorenyo ay hindi lamang sa salita kundi sa konkretong aksyon,” Camara said.

Joint operatives executed two search warrants issued by the Regional Trial Court Branch 43 in Roxas against a 41-year-old resident of Sitio Madugo.

Confiscated during the search were 22 heat-sealed sachets and multiple packages containing suspected shabu weighing approximately 275.55 grams, with an estimated Dangerous Drugs Board standard value of Php1,873,740.

Operatives also recovered a .22-caliber rifle, a .45-caliber 1911A1 Norinco pistol with a magazine, a digital weighing scale, various drug paraphernalia and assorted live ammunition— including 63 rounds of 9mm, 26 rounds of .45-caliber and six rounds of .38-caliber.

The suspect is currently in police custody and faces formal charges for violations of Republic Act No. 9165, or the Comprehensive Dangerous Drugs Act of 2002, and Republic Act No. 10591, otherwise known as the Comprehensive Firearms and Ammunition Regulation Act. (AS/JBG/PIA MIMAROPA-Oriental Mindoro)

DepEd to roll out school digital safety campaign

MANILA — As part of ongoing efforts to strengthen school safety, the Department of Education (DepEd) is set to launch a School Digital Safety Campaign for students, teachers, and parents.

Secretary Sonny Angara said that the department aims to add another crucial layer of protection through digital safety.

“Keeping our children safe today means understanding that their world extends beyond the classroom and into their phones, games, group chats, and social media. We need to give children, parents, and teachers the knowledge and tools to navigate these spaces safely,” said Angara.

According to DepEd, this initiative directly supports the department’s revised K to 10 curriculum, which integrates digital citizenship, netiquette, online safety, and responsible technology use into core subjects such as Edukasyong Pantahanan at Pangkabuhayan (EPP)/Technology and Livelihood Education (TLE), Values Education, and Physical Education & Health for Grades 4 through 10.

To ensure these lessons extend beyond the classroom, the School Digital Safety Campaign will translate curriculum concepts into simple, everyday activities that parents and teachers can easily implement together.

Likewise, the campaign will provide practical, age-appropriate guidance on safe chatting and online behavior, grooming and online child exploitation, cyberbullying and online harassment, privacy, scams, and the protection of personal information.

It also covers responsible social media use, gaming and online safety, exposure to violent or harmful online content, healthy screen time and digital well-being, as well as warning signs, reporting, referrals, and appropriate actions to take should an incident occur.

DepEd further explained that a key component of the campaign is preparing parents to better understand their children’s digital lives. Parents will receive practical guidance on how to talk to their children about what they see and experience online, how to recognize potential warning signs, how to set appropriate boundaries, and how to know when and where to seek help.

“Parents do not have to know every app or platform their children use. But they need to keep the lines of communication open. Our children should know that when something online scares them, pressures them, or makes them uncomfortable, they can tell a trusted adult and ask for help,” added Angara.

The campaign will also build the capacity of teachers and school personnel to identify warn-

The presence of a global pioneer of what is called mixed methods research (MMR) will mark the staging of a third mixed methods fair this October in Manila.

Leading research methods book author Dr. John W. Creswell will personally grace Halo-Halo 3: The Filipino Mixed Methods Fair, slated this October 14 and 15 at the University of Santo Tomas in Manila.

Creswell served as the first president of the Mixed Methods International Research Association (MMIRA) more than a decade ago. But Creswell, for 35 years, has been promoting MMR through his books and speaking engagements worldwide.

Creswell, a senior research scientist at the University of Michigan's Mixed Methods Program (under the Department of Family Medicine), has authored about 27 books on research methods. Among these books are two editions of 'A Concise Introduction of Mixed Methods Research' (2014 and 2024).

At Halo-Halo 3, John and wife Dr. Mariko Hirose-Creswell will egg on Filipinos to adhere to the Fair's theme 'Motivating a Mixed Methods Mind-set.'

Hirose-Creswell is a cultural psychologist who is a graduate professor of Psychology at Kwansei Gakuin University in Nishinomiya, Japan.

Apart from plenary talks by the Creswells, Halo-Halo 3 will feature paper presentations, talks on data analysis for MMR, and workshops on developing a mixed methods project.

Halo-Halo 3 is organized by UST's Research Center for Social Science and Education (RCSSSE), together with the UST Graduate School and the Philippine Association of Mixed Methods Researchers and Emergent Scholars (PAMMRES). The event carries a P5,000 registration fee.

#WeMenWeave breaks gender stereotypes in local weaving

Weaving has long been closely associated with Filipino women, but across the country, Filipino men are also helping to preserve the craft, carry forward indigenous traditions, and build livelihoods through local handloom weaving.

According to the Department of Science and Technology Philippine Textile Research Institute (DOST-PTRI) DiGiTELazation’s SalinHabi Mobile App, an online registry of local weavers and authentic indigenous textiles, men account for 14 percent, or 179, of registered weavers nationwide as of 18 September 2026.

Through its #WeMenWeave program, DOST-PTRI, seeks to recognize and support Filipino men in the weaving sector while challenging stereotypes that associate weaving exclusively with women. The initiative highlights a simple truth, weaving is a cultural tradition and livelihood that knows no gender.

Among those carrying this message is 43-year-old Abra weaver Norman Humpay Venus of LPZ Handloom Woven Products.

Venus entered the weaving industry in 2013. Before becoming a weaver, he was a rice farmer, but the seasonal nature of farming left him with limited sources of income between planting periods. With ample time on his hands, he decided to learn weaving and help his wife, who was already engaged in the craft. He began weaving Kantarines, a traditional handloom textile from Abra and Ilocos Norte, and later learned to weave Binakol, a more intricate Ilocano weaving tradition.

Starting was not easy. Venus encountered comments from people who believed weaving was work meant only for women. Instead of letting the stigma discourage him, he continued learning the craft, determined to contribute to his family’s livelihood.

“Nung una po challenge po talaga sa akin. Mostly po kasi babae ang naghahabi. Kaya nung nakikita ng mga tao na naghahabi ako sabi nila trabaho ng babae ‘yan bakit mo sinusubukan, sabi ko gusto ko lang makatulong sa pamilya ko, hanggang sa mag-success po kami. Hanggang sa lumaki na po yung business namin nakapagpaa-aral na kami ng mga anak namin.” Venus shared.

Venus has since expanded his skills through DOST-PTRI interventions. In September 2025, he trained in the use of a four-pedal handloom weaving machine, a technology introduced by the Textile Institute to improve the weavers’ efficiency and create a wider range of weaving patterns.

DOST-PTRI has also supported weavers and local entrepreneurs through the deployment of cotton-based yarns through its Philippine Cotton Weaving Movement, creating locally woven fabrics that have found their way into products developed by designers and showcased in local fashion events which Venus personally experienced.

For Venus, weaving has grown beyond a source of income. His perseverance has inspired others in his community to take up the craft, with some husbands now working alongside their wives and families continuing the tradition across generations.

His children, Louise and Philip, after whom LPZ Handloom Woven Products was named, are also learning the craft. At just 17 and 15 years old and still in senior high school, they are already weaving alongside their parents.

The story of the Venus family reflects how weaving can become more than a livelihood. It can become a bridge between generations, a source of family strength, and a way of keeping Filipino heritage alive.

This year, Venus is also taking part for the first time in the Philippine Handloom Weaving Festival, giving more Filipinos the opportunity to discover and purchase their products. The festival also features the Hinabi Textile Bazaar, showcasing local handwoven products and the rich culture, stories, and creativity behind Philippine handloom weaving.

Like Norman’s story, #WeMenWeave continues to amplify the stories of Filipino men who help preserve and advance the country’s rich textile traditions while promoting inclusivity in keeping the weaving heritage alive, highlighting that weaving knows no gender and goes beyond social norms.

Our little secret since December 18 2025. ❤️👰

For 9 months, we've been treasuring this beautiful secret between us, quietly smiling to ourselves and taking our time to cherish it, knowing that one day we'd finally share it with the world.

It started with a simple "Hi, I'm a fan po". Neither of us could have known where that little message would take us. And from there, life became a collection of airports, competitions, hotel rooms, long training days, little adventures, big dreams, and countless moments in between. I got to watch you chase your dreams, and you let me be beside you through the biggest moments of your life. We grew up together. We learned together. We fought for each other, protected each other, supported each other, and built a life of our own.

Through everything, God has continued to guide us, protect us, and give us the strength to keep going. And looking back now, I'm grateful even for the chapters that weren't easy, because they brought us here.

Mahal ko, I would choose you in every lifetime. And now, we get to choose each other for the rest of this one.

I love you. Forever. 💍

Hurdler Tolentino,
Team Sibol
add bronze medals
to PH Asiad haul

MANILA – Team Philippines added two more bronze medals to its 20th Asian Games haul in Nagoya, Japan on Sunday.

Athletics' John Cabang Tolentino placed third in the men's 110-meter hurdles while esports Team Sibol climbed the podium after the Pokémon Unite contest.

The 25-year-old Tolentino, who competed at the 2024 Paris Olympics, clocked 13.48 seconds behind China's Chen Yuanjiang (13.15) and Japan's Rachid Muratake (13.29).

Team Sibol started its campaign with a DNS (Did Not Start), along with Kazakhstan, due to a uniform-related issue.

It then recovered with victories over Chinese Taipei, 2-0; Malaysia, 2-0; and Hong Kong in the quarterfinals, 2-0, to secure the bronze, before yielding to eventual silver medalist Indonesia in the semifinals, 0-2, at Aichi Sky Expo.

The team is composed of Kim Rey Salazar, Robert Jon Mempin, Michael Vaughn Ocio, Lance David, Ducke Harnold Leoncio and Lawrence Anthony Gatmaitan under head coach Albert Camp.

Japan won the gold while South Korea also snared bronze after losing to the host in the other semifinals.

As of posting time, the Philippines has a 2-2-8 gold-silver-bronze tally.

Thailand is the best-placed Southeast Asian team (9-7-10), followed by Malaysia (6-2-8). Indonesia and Singapore also have 2 gold medals each.

China remained the runaway leader (118-48-38), followed by Japan (37-60-57) and South Korea (20-23-29).

Earlier, veteran Janry Ubas made it to the men's long jump final.

The 2023 Cambodia Southeast Asian Games gold medalist cleared 7.59 meters on his second attempt at Mizuho Park Stadium, placing eighth overall in a field of 12 finalists.

Uzbekistan's Anvar Anvarov led all qualifiers with 8.00 meters.

"Gusto ko talaga maka-produce ng medalya kasi pang-third time ko na ito. Next time, 36 or 37 na ako (I really want to produce a medal because this is already my third time here. By the next edition, I will already be 36 or 37 years old)," he added.

The other Filipino medalists are gymnastics' Carlos Yulo (2 golds); mixed martial arts' Jean Claude Saclag and women's 3x3 basketball (silver); and the women's soft tennis team, mixed martial arts' Carlos Alvarez, gymnastics' Karl Eldrew Yulo, weightlifting's Albert Ian Delos Santos, and karate's Marie June Adriano and women's kata team (bronze). Golden Tigresses secure last V-League
Collegiate semis berth

MANILA – University of Santo Tomas secured the last semifinal berth in the V-League Collegiate Challenge after beating College of Saint Benilde, 25-23, 25-16, 25-16, at Gameville Central Park in Mandaluyong City on Sunday.

Marga Altea led the Golden Tigresses with 15 points on 11 attacks, three blocks, and one service ace, while also contributing four excellent receptions.

Skipper Regina Jurado contributed 14 points, while Angeline Poyos had eight points, eight digs and five receptions.

"We're just happy and, of course, blessed, because our run in the elimination round, our start, was really up and down. The good thing is that we were able to test our new players. That was our goal, after all: To see their reactions and their performance during actual game situations," head coach Shaq Delos Santos said.

He hopes the team can build on the momentum it has established over the past few games.

"It's probably about adapting to the coaches' system. We're at a stage where we need to know exactly what we want to do on the court. We shouldn't be guessing, which is why we're really investing in training," Delos Santos said.

Camila Amor Bartolome scored 13 points on 11 attacks and two blocks while Shahanna Reign Lleses added seven points for the Lady Blazers, who finished the tournament with a 2-5 record. (PNA)

Gilas women claim Asiad silver;
Eldrew Yulo gets bronze

NAGOYA – Yuki Hirashita delivered a cold-blooded dagger with 31.2 seconds left, sealing Japan's 21-11 triumph over the Gilas Pilipinas women in the 3x3 basketball final of the 20th Asian Games on Friday night.

Kacey Dela Rosa was a force in the middle as the Gilas women fought with unmistakable grit, but Japan's precision proved too sharp and steady in front of a sizeable hometown gallery at the Kinjo Futo Station Square Venue.

Dela Rosa had six points, three blocks and three rebounds, and Amyah Espanol and KA Kennan added three and two points each as the Philippines settled for its second silver medal in the Games.

In men's gymnastics, Carlos Yulo's younger brother, Karl Eldrew, claimed bronze – the Philippines' fifth overall -- in the horizontal bar event with a score of 13.666 (5.0 difficulty, 8.566 in execution, 0.1 bonus point). China's Hao Tian won (14.700) while Japan's Shinnosuke Oka settled for silver (14.033).

"Honestly, I feel bad because I couldn't lead them to the gold. They really deserved to win that. Sa lahat ng sakripisyo, lahat ng (Thank you for sacrifice, all) hard work, I really believe they deserve it," Gilas women coach Anton Altamirano said.

"But we're still happy to bring a medal home for the country. I believe we gave our best in the tournament, we just really fell short in this gold-medal match," he added.

Hirashita, calm and calculating, orchestrated the offense with veteran poise, finishing with nine points and five rebounds.

Equally devastating was Sakura Horiuchi, whose eight points and seven rebounds provided Japan with a bruising interior anchor.

Together, Hirashita and Horiuchi formed a punishing one-two punch that dictated the tempo from start to finish.

Japan's dominance was no surprise to those who witnessed its semifinal demolition of Korea, a 19-8

masterclass that underscored its status as the continent's 3x3 powerhouse.

Gilas, meanwhile, earned its place in the finale with a gritty 13-8 victory over Thailand in the other semis clash.

The PH men's 3x3 squad missed the podium after South Korea ruled their bronze-medal match, 21-9.

As of posting time, the Philippines has two gold medals (both from Carlos Yulo), two silver (one from mixed martial arts' Jean Claude Saclag) and five bronze medals (Karl Yulo, women's soft tennis team, mixed martial arts' Carlos Alvarez and karate's Marie June Adriano and women's kata team).

China continued to show the way as of the 9:45 p.m. update with 98-37-24 gold-silver-bronze, followed by Japan (28-43-44), South Korea (13-17-24), Kazakhstan (8-8-14), Uzbekistan (7-15-9) and best-placed Southeast Asian team Thailand (7-6-8). (PR/PNA)
